I am a qualified music teacher, specialising in piano and theory tuition. My teaching career began in 2000 while studying for my music degree at the University of York, and continued during my postgraduate studies there and at University College London. Since then I have worked as both class music teacher and Head of Department at secondary schools in Harrow and Hounslow, teaching music to KS3, GCSE and A Level students. I have 12 years experience teaching as an advanced practitioner for Hillingdon Music Hub, have a current DBS certificate, and am a member of the Independent Society of Musicians (ISM). Lessons are 30mins (£25) or 1 hour (£45). I offer one-to-one lessons for children (age 6+) and adults in piano, violin and music theory from my home in Uxbridge, London Borough of Hillingdon. Lessons are planned around each individual student - whether they wish to work towards exams or learn purely for pleasure. I am experienced in preparing students for ABRSM Grade examinations, both practical, online and theory. Please contact me to discuss your requirements. Josephine
