Still run by performers to this day, including Jonny Daymond our Entertainment Director, Yes Entertainment provides corporate event entertainment & wedding entertainment to professional and private event planners across London and beyond. The majority of our performers have been tried and tested through previous bookings ensuring that when they are booked our clients and ourselves can be confident that they will do a fantastic job. When we are approached by new performers we look for three main aspects; Professionalism – will they arrive with plenty of time to spare, dressed appropriately and with all the information that we have provided them? Skill – how well can they play/perform their chosen instrument/s or act? Entertainment ability – can they connect with an audience and engage them through their character as well as their skill?
