If you are looking for a teacher who is deeply committed to excellence in piano teaching, step this way! My piano students love their lessons with me and most continue learning with me for many years, often achieving an advanced level and winning music prizes. I want all my students to come out of lessons with a smile on their face! I have studied piano to postgraduate level, and have a teaching qualification. Moreover, I have years of experience, especially working with children and I currently teach piano in 3 schools. We learn classical, pop, jazz, composing and the nuts and bolts of music theory are taught in a fun way with lots of games and creativity. We don't just learn to read music and play scales- we sing, we move, we listen, we improvise. We play together and make music exciting and rewarding. I have loads of fun challenges to keep motivation high and pupils measuring their progress, rather than coasting along not knowing how they are doing. All ages and abilities welcome! Please see my website for further details.
