I have been teaching the piano for 30 years and during that time have enjoyed every minute with students of all ages. I teach basically via the classical route and students can learn jazz and pop too. I work at the speed of the student so there is plenty of time for them to understand the subject they are exploring. I encourage the youngsters to play in concerts at their schools and I give them the option if they wish to take the Associated Board examinations. I find that playing the piano helps people with other subjects too and also can be a way of relaxing from the day to day activities.

Qualification: Licentiate of the Guildhall School of Music
